The Community Plumbing Challenge is an initiative of IWSH: the International Water, Sanitation and Hygiene Foundation. We work with local and international partners to deliver life-changing, scalable interventions in partnership with host communities.

Each of our projects is designed to encourage hands-on collaboration and skills exchange to sustainably solve longstanding water and sanitation challenges.

Connecting with the Navajo Water Project from Oct 22–26, 2018

Addressing critical repair and renovation work in collaboration with local community

We are putting together a talented and multi-disciplined team of tradespeople to carry out plumbing and construction works over the course of an intensive, week-long project. And we need your help! By participating in Community Plumbing Challenge Navajo Nation, you will help to improve living conditions in approximately ten households located across the Baca-Prewitt community: households nominated by DigDeep that represent the completion of the Navajo Water Project in this particular area of the reservation.

Focusing on education, hands-on skills development and public health awareness

The program will incorporate the support and involvement of local and international partners, drawing specific focus to education, training and professional development in relevant skilled trades careers. Team members will rally together with local residents and leaders to solve issues and collaborate successfully across a variety of project sites and technical skillsets.

Join our skilled trades team:
Sign up or nominate a participant today!
Learn more at www.commplumbing.org
Join us in New Mexico this fall: Packages now available

IWSH is delighted to offer the following Team Member package, which covers accommodation, meals and local transport* for the duration of the Community Plumbing Challenge Navajo Nation project.

USD $1,000 per person

6 nights Bed & Breakfast Accommodation in Gallup, New Mexico

Arrival / check-in: Sunday, Oct. 21, 2018
Departure / check-out: Saturday, Oct. 27, 2018

Daily transport to and from project site(s)
Lunches and Evening Meals

Price does not include flights, which must be booked separately:
Please contact info@iwsh.org for booking support.

* Team Members who wish to travel to the project using own transport are welcome to do so

We welcome the opportunity to customize a participant package that will fit your needs
For questions or additional information, please contact us!

The International Water, Sanitation and Hygiene Foundation (IWSh) harnesses the skills and expertise of water industry professionals, organizations and manufacturers to support critical water, sanitation and hygiene initiatives worldwide. We do this by tapping into over 100 years of industry experience to develop local infrastructure, improve governance, and create conditions for better public health and economic outcomes. IWSh is a registered 501(c)(3) public charity.